

Jet Setting Has Never Been so Luxurious for Your Skin

Traveling this season? Now you can arrive at your destination looking great with the new Air Repair Kit, designed from the ground up to help prevent skin damage while flying.

San Francisco, CA (PRWEB) October 25, 2006 -- While hopping on a plane this season, there's no longer a need to compromise your good looks. The new Air Repair Kit helps protect and restore skin while you travel.

Airplane travel wreaks havoc on your skin. Low humidity, inadequate rest and variations in water quality take their toll, leaving skin dry, dehydrated and irritated. Passengers exposed to low humidity suffer from the effects of in-flight air, which is dryer than any of the world's deserts. The Journal of Environmental Health Research confirms the "typical relative humidity in aircraft cabins for flights over an hour is below 10% for most of the journey, dropping to less than 5% on longer flights. Wrinkles, lines, dark circles and flakiness are all effects of in flight travel."

The Air Repair Kit is an essential traveler's kit including six luxury skincare products from around the world, hand-selected for their effectiveness and ability to work synergistically. The kit was conceived particularly to help prevent stresses that travel puts on the skin. Products in the kit are sold in a 30-day supply, offering a continued skincare regime that yields visible results.

"Air travelers are exposed to changes in the environment starting right when you board the plane," says Denise Spanek, licensed skincare expert and beauty industry entrepreneur. "Many people felt panicked when told they were not able to bring their creams and lotions aboard airplanes when airport security carry-on restrictions went into effect. It's most essential to treat your skin before entering an airplane and again after flying. The quality of the global products in this kit will help provide long-lasting moisturizing of the skin and protection during and after the flight."

The All Purpose Luxury Skincare Travel Kit Has Arrived

The Air Repair Kit is a necessity before flying, after arrival and for ongoing daily skincare use while traveling. The Air Repair Kit includes:

Desquacreme, a creamy, foaming facial cleanser by Sothys from Paris that deep cleans but is mild enough for all skin types.

One each of the Karin Herzog Oxygen Face Cream and Essential Mask from Switzerland to literally "breathe" life and elasticity back into the skin after exposure to an oxygen-depleting environment such as flying.

Air Repair Skin Vitality Mineral Mist (Spanek's own brand) which is an effective botanical re-hydrator, used as a toner or sprayed directly on the skin to relieve excessive dryness.

Air Repair Rescue Balm, a uniquely formulated salve that helps prevent trans-epidermal water loss which is a primary cause of dry skin when traveling.

Terme Cream from Italy, a special long-lasting hand and nail cream that moisturizes and protects without being greasy.

An ultra practical, deluxe toiletry bag with plenty of room to add other travel items.

A handy, comprehensive instruction card on how to use each product depending on your travel needs.

The Air Repair Kit sells for $195 (approximately 30 applications or 30 days of daily use) and is available exclusively from Visage Studio at <http://www.visagestudio.com> [Visage Studio].

About Visage Studio

For over 20 years, Visage Studio has provided services to a worldwide clientele. Every product is carefully researched and hand-picked by beauty entrepreneur, owner, and licensed skincare expert Denise Spanek and all products are available at the Visage Studio online store. Spanek travels extensively, discovering lesser-known and more effective lines of skin care and lifestyle products from around the world. Recently, Spanek added her own line of skincare products, Air Repair, to address the specific needs of travelers. For more information, contact Visage Studio at 650.347.0465 or visit the online store at <http://www.visagestudio.com>

###

Contact Information

Denise Spanek

Visage Studio

<http://www.visagestudio.com>

650-347-0465

Online Web 2.0 Version

You can read the online version of this press release here.